HOTEL BUSINESS AND BANKING DESCRIBED

L. G. Treadway and Levi Smith Talk About Vocations in Conferences.

"There is no business in which a young man without funds or influence can feel more certain of getting to the top, if he has the necessary qualities, than the hotel business", said L. G. Treadway, managing director of "Real New England Inns", in a vocational talk last Wednesday.

The opportunities which banking offers to college men was the subject of a vocational talk by Levi Smith, of Burlington, yesterday. There was an attendance of about twenty at the conference.

Hotel Management

Opportunities in hotel management are very good for young men, said Mr. Treadway, because there is a continual turnover of help in the hotel business due to seasonal changes in the volume of business. An employee engaged in hotel work should not resist making frequent changes because different positions increase his experience in the work and make him better fitted for the position of manager. It is necessary for anyone interested in hotel work to spend a few years in the more menial positions about the hotel so that he can have a working knowledge of all the functions of the hotel when he has a chance to become manager of one.

The hotel work has also its drawbacks, however. The hotel is busiest on Sunday and holidays, when most men would like to be free to enjoy themselves. It requires a true liking of the

JUNIOR WEEK WILL HAVE VARIETY SHOW

Fraternities to Participate in New Feature of Holiday Week.

An interfraternity variety show on Thursday evening, May 7, will be one of the most important features of the 1932 junior week. This show will be produced somewhat similar to the usual interfraternity stunts, but will be on a much more ambitious scale.

Notice of the detailed regulations governing the competition has been given to all fraternities by Edward Doty, chairman of the committee. Because of the higher standard of production which is expected it has been arranged that all seats in the gymnasium will be reserved and the price of these reservations will be fifty cents.

Two cups are being offered by the committee for the winners, these to be retained by the fraternities. The group which wins third place will receive honorable mention. The committee feels that these attractive prizes will draw enthusiastic response from the competitors.

The judging for these winners will be based upon three main points, the originality displayed in arrangements, the smoothness of the technicalities of production, and the finish of the acting. While it has not been stipulated as to the exact number of men who must take part in the productions, it is understood that the group will be representative of the entire fraternity. The judges who will be present at the competition are Pres. Paul D. Moody, Dean Burt A. Hazeltine, and Prof. Reginald Cook.

Twenty-one minutes will be alloted to each fraternity, and it is suggested by the committee that six minutes be allowed for preparing and dismantling the stage. Fraternities will not be allowed to spend more than ten dollars on their productions.

In order to insure a finished performance the committee has asked that each fraternity appoint a manager who will report to the chairman of the junior week stunt committee before March 24th. In past years the various groups have delayed in making the preliminary arrangements for their productions,

WIG AND PEN MAKES NEW CONSTITUTION

Reorganization Provides for Student President and Annual Play.

A new constitution has been drawn up for the Wig and Pen society and was unanimously accepted by the members at a meeting held Saturday. This constitution is a revision of the old, and incorporates several new features which include a student president, new eligibility requirements, and an annual Wig and Pen play. This new constitution will be put in effect immediately.

According to the new constitution, students are not eligible for membership in Wig and Pen until after the first semester of their Junior year. The purpose of this phase of the constitution is to put the organization on a more strictly honorary basis.

Provision is made for student officers with the head of the dramatic department as faculty advisor. The newly elected officers are Kenneth Parker '31, president; Geraldine Griffin '31, vice-president; Alden Utton '31, treasurer; and Linnea Wall '31, secretary.

Another feature of the constitution is provision for an annual play to be presented by Wig and Pen early in the second semester Tryouts are now in progress for the casting of this year's play, which will be produced following the spring recess.

Wig and Pen will hold its meetings during the first college week of each month. Programs of meetings will be in charge of the social committe, under Marjorie Frye '31, chairman.

The quota of members from the class of 1932 will be elected shortly. The constitution provides that the initiation banquet, formerly held in the fall, will take place in the spring.

The changes made in the constitution were affected with a view to promoting activity in Wig and Pen and advancing its standing among the honorary organizations on campus.

An interesting innovation is the establishment of an alumni correspondence committee under the secretary of the organization as chairman. This committee proposes to be of service to graduates, particularly those planning to enter the teaching field, who are seeking information with regard to phases of production activity.

MUSICAL SERVICE FOR PALM SUNDAY

A musical program, "The Seven Last Words of Christ", by Theodore Dubois, will be presented Palm Sunday at Mead chapel.

This is a cantata written for a soprano, baritone, tenor and chorus. The soprano part will be taken by Miss Fish, the baritone by Mr. Davies, director of music and soloist at the First Congregational church of Burlington. The tenor part has not yet been decided upon. The chorus will be made up of the choir, the women's glee club and a part of the men's glee club.

The cantata, which represents the seven last words from the cross, is especially suited in its sentiment to a Palm Sunday service.

TIME TO DIG IN

Most of us are barging about campus these days in a stoicly insensible frame of mind. To walk downstreet requires a positive exertion of will. And even then the consequences are fraught with disaster, unless one is built like a gazelle or attired as a Gloucester fisherman, skipping from one puddle to another. Sluggishness of body, and mind as well, is truly universal. To work on the books appears a physical impossibility. Impervious and imperturable, our collective mind stoutly defends the citadel against assaults of the profs, and other incursions of knowelge.

But if we look ahead a few weeks, it would be realized that now is the one time to hit the courses. Sunny skies and brilliant spring days are just around the corner. They will be here sooner than one may think. Let us study while we may, then, for the time will come when one feels a keen and vivid urge to paddle in Dunmore's clear waters, and to tramp the cool forest hills quiet and green in their spring attire. Let us earn the privilege of leisure now.

Without wishing to throw out too many platitudes, may we say from the observation of experience that work left undone this dismal period is never fully completed. For the rest of the year, one's courses will stagger along to a hectic wind-up in June and a dubious set of grades. To lose one's power of initiative now is to relinquish peace of mind for months. Perhaps it is only a paper to write, a book to read, or other little things. Taken separately they are nothing, but in the aggregate one piles up an immense amount of work for later reference. Now is the time to dig in and fortify oneself for the future. For, as Goethe so well expresses it, ". . . days are lost in lamenting over days."

One thing more. Action always gets results. A particle of effort, applied in regular amounts, is bound to produce an agreeably surprising effect. Often such success is far out of proportion to the puny initial impetus. In psychology it is known as the law of lesser concessions. Little day by day attentions to the scholarly Muse will bring its reward in good time. A task once begun, let us remember, is always completed.

VALEDICTORY.

With this issue the editorial year draws to a close. A new board is elected and will take charge immediately following Easter recess. In retrospect, the year has been an altogether enjoyable experience. Our intention was to develop the mechanics of newspaper production to the utmost, keeping always in mind the ideal of service to the college community. We have striven to inculcate standards of literary excellence in news stories, and a sense of responsibility in competitors for position. These elements, we felt, could make the paper successful and reflect credit to the college and to members of the board. We wonder if our purpose is accomplished. It is with mingled feelings, then, that we hand over the torch to our successors.

Of the editorial policy little remains to be said, and we do not propose any rationalization now. Insignificant as our words may have seemed from time to time, breadth of view and clarity of statement was our chief purpose. Briefly, this column has tried to express synthesized experience. No crusades were led, but we criticized what seemed incompatible with rational college life and praised that which placed it on a higher level. Sincerity of purpose, honesty of opinion, justice in presentation—these have been our bywords. We trust that the editorial column has had meaning.

A TRUE STORY, by Stephen Hudson, New York, Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., $3.00.

A TRUE STORY is a rather long and disconnected, but pleasant account of a young man's early youth and manhood, picturing his school days, his unhappy marriage, and his subsequent life until he finds a girl whom he really loves.

Mr. Hudson portrays in Richard Kurt a character of artistic and poetic temperament, more or less romantically idealistic, endowed with an exotic craving for something he seems never to possess. In his school days in England, he was constantly being changed from one tutor to another. His course was always irregular. On a trip to America, when he was connected with some business of the family, he married Elinor Colhouse, a girl who desired merely wealth and a royal title, neither of which, by the way, he turned out to possess. This marriage caused a quarrel with Richard's family.

During the wanderings of the couple throughout Europe, Kurt falls in love with two different girls, whom he leaves because they do not seem to fulfill all his ideals of womanhood. His life with Elinor becomes intolerable. He finds an English girl with whom he is really in love, and who loves him for what he is, and can sympathize with him. Elinor has also been going out quite a lot with other men, so the two agree to a divorce.

The material of A TRUE STORY originally appeared in four separate volumes, and has been combined and reknit to form the present novel. The style is at times elliptical and terse. The author takes freedom in the matter of punctuation and expression, but this license only contributes to the whole effect of indeterminate aimlessness characteristic of the central figure.

THE STORY OF LEONORA, by Lady Troubridge, New York, Alfred H. King, Inc., $2.00.

In THE STORY OF LEONORA, Lady Troubridge has used the vanishing social life of the late Victorian era as the setting for a fascinating tragic-comedy.

The narrative revolves around the character of Leonora, or Leo as she was popularly called, whose mother jealously breaks up an affair of Leo's with one of her own former admirers. The daughter is then led into a marriage with a politician, whom she does not love, but whom she gradually begins to love. He, at an unhappy moment, unfortunately quenches the affection she was developing for him. The two practically live apart for many years, being man and wife in name and apearance only. Finally Leonora is brought to love him again, finding that in so doing she is satisfying a deep-felt longing which she has suppressed for years through a sense of injured pride. And in her later life she is of great help to her husband in his diplomatic relations, and contributes materially to his success.

In the meantime, Leo's former lover has also married, but not happily. The two meet at a banquet, and discover in conversation that her mother had been the agent of evil, intercepting their letters, and thus effectively thwarting their love. They realize then how much they have missed in losing each other, but since they are both attached, they must part, forever.

Lady Troubridge is well-known in English literary and social circles, and in her younger days knew such men as Browning, Tennyson, and G. F. Watts, the painter. She was also acquainted with Prince Edward as a member of the famous "Marlboro House set" which he gathered around him. With this background and acquaintance it is little wonder that she can portray with such sympathetic feeling the delightful Victorian atmosphere of this book, and make it a true work of art.

Shreds and Patches

Contrary to our expectations, there was no notice read out in chapel last week saying: "The following freshmen report on the chapel roof to straighten the steeple."

Another communication we'd welcome is one by an audacious young blood, recommending a local system of Dutch dates. When we think of the number of movies we've passed up for such a silly reason, it just burns us up. To those who maintain that Dutch treating takes away all the romance from dates, might we inquire what romance attaches itself to the purchase of frankfurters and coffee at the cart?

The next song like "Crying Mysulf Tooz Leep," as we hear is rendered in these environs, should be suppressed the instant it is wafted onto the campus. The idea — suggesting that nights out privileges extend till "the clock's striking three"!

We're hurt. We sulk. N-noby ever criticizes (sniff) this feature in l-lower case t-type! We feel so unnecessary.

What an alacrity has developed in answering dormitory phones of late! A fascinating string of sorority formals stretches away into the spring, which more or less explains things.

After Tuesday night, we decided that we were awfully glad we weren't born in Italy — we don't know a word of Italian.

As for the person who laughs at the wrong places in the advertising period of P. S. Murray's cinema program, we have but one word. He's a scoundrel and a hound and we have the greatest respect for his sense of humor.

What injustice! To preface a scriptural reading concerned with the beautiful subject of true love by ejecting a couple of amorous canines from chapel! And by such brute strength, too.

A Bible reference most wondrously applicable to Middlebury campus was the selection referring to those who wandered about in sheepskins, being destitute. "Upon receipt of a self-addressed envelope, Mr. Ripley will furnish complete details."

Now that H. R. H. the prince, "Britain's empire-salesman", is touring the South American points of interest, we see that he behaves even as you and I. He loses heavily at baccarat, dances an apology for a tango, and enthusiastically approves of native women. Long live the prince!

Just to cooperate with the depression of the times, Mr. Hoover spiritedly vetoes right and left, in the closing hours of congress. It would be just as good an idea to keep the college appropriations out of his hands, or we would be deprived of everything from cinders for the paths to free nights out for men. What a thought!

And, for a closing thought, just think how funny Will Rogers could be in this many words. The ultimate in something or other is reached by the rumor of the local "Defender of the Faith" who frowned "Little Accidents" out of l'Opera. Shades of Carrie Nation!

by j.t.

If the canine attendance at chapel continues to grow, we might as well have judges, award ribbons, and generally enliven things with an all-breed dog show.

If Prexy continues to read from the sports accounts of the ancient Hebrews he may eventually be able to compete with the thrillers which are occasionly discovered in chapel.

Indications are that one of these days some chemistry professor will be serenaded by a special orchestra. This great event will occur as soon as the beaker player learns his part.

Just another futile suggestion: Why not have Joe LeBlang establish a branch office to dispose of slightly used entertainment course tickets whose users have to study for preannounceds.

"REMEMBER JESUS CHRIST", SAYS PAUL

The Rev. Arthur W. Hewitt Points Out the Need of Testing Our Lives by Jesus.

The Rev. Arthur W. Hewitt of Plainfield, Vermont, spoke at vespers March 15 on the necessity of taking Jesus into our lives and keeping Him near us always. He chose as his text Paul's advice to Timothy, "Remember Jesus Christ".

He said in part: "Forget for a while the world and its wisdom and follies, and remember Jesus and His sufferings. It is coming near the time, Easter, when these scenes of His life will be vividly recalled. It is of the utmost importantance to always remember them. At the last supper, Jesus said 'Drink this, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of Me.' We are still doing this in remembrance of Him.

GLEE CLUB NOW ON LAST TRIP OF YEAR

Week's Tour of New York and New Jersey Includes Seven Appearances.

The Middlebury College glee club sang last night at Mount Kisco, N. Y. and over WOR this afternoon as the first of a week of concerts in New York and New Jersey. The club will appear three more times on the stage, again over the radio, and make a record for Columbia before returning to college next Monday.

Possibly the most important concert of the entire trip is that at the International house Sunday evening. This place is a social center for foreign students studying in New York city and was built for that purpose by John D. Rockefeller. More than a thousand students make their homes there, over seventy nationalities being represented. Concerts are given every Sunday evening for the entertainment of the scholars, some of the best musicians in the world considering it a privilege to appear before this group.

The broadcast over the WEAF chain will take place Saturday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:00. A program arranged specially for the occasion by the directors of the club will be presented.

The Columbia record will consist of two number, "Finlandia" by Sibelius and "Gamaliel Painter's Cane" by Wiley. Since these two numbers received the most favorable comment in the recent broadcast over WGY it was decided to record them in preference to all others on the program. Announcement will be made at a later date as to the distribution and sale of this disc.

Tonight the club will sing in Englewood, N. J., under the auspices of the parent-teacher association and Friday evening at Ridgewood, N. J., under the auspices of the high school league of the west side church. This last concert is a return engagement, the club having sung there last year.

Mr. James C. Thomson '29, violinist, and Richard A. Fear '31, tenor, will be soloists. The Middlebury male quartet will also give a group of numbers.

PRESIDENT MOODY READS SAKI TALES

Humorous Stories of Hector Hugh Munro Subject of Library Reading Last Friday.

President Paul D. Moody gave the sixth of the winter series of readings in the Abernethy wing of the Egbert Starr library, Friday afternoon, March 13, reading selections from "Short Stories of Saki". "Saki" is the pen name of Hector Hugh Munro, an English writer who was killed during the World war.

One story told of a man who pretended to be well versed in Siberian magic, and of his extreme consternation when friends borrowed a tame wolf from a menagerie, and made it appear that the magic was powerful. Another story gave a humorous account of a cat who was taught to speak English, and how he all but ruined a house party by commenting on the guests and their actions.

One tale recounted the hunting experiences of two young women, who met an escaped hyena, which followed them; and how one of the women made money from a passing motorist, when his car killed the animal, the man thinking all the while that he had killed a valuable dog. Still another story told how a woman was killed by a stag, because she had insulted the god Pan. There was also the amusing account of a young convert, who showed his good will by taking a church choir on a picnic, and then leading them in a bacchanalian procession through the village.

WOMEN'S TEAM WINS IN VERMONT DEBATE

Conference Decision Favors Middlebury Against University of Vermont March 11.

The women's debating team triumphed over the University of Vermont last Wednesday evening, March 11, in Burlington. Ellen Kellogg '31, Jilda Pacheco '31, and Eva Tuttle '32, represented Middlebury in upholding the affirmative side of the question, resolved: that scientific and mechanical progress represent an advance in civilization. Sylvia Boyd, Laura Johnson and Roberta Powers of Vermont debated the negative. A conference decision of the three judges favored Middlebury.

The Middlebury team represented an outline of scientific progress pointing out its beneficial effects on Christianity, including the alliance of religion and science. They demonstrated the benefits of science to mankind through the progression of medicine, and the increasing knowledge of heredity and physiology. It was also stated that by means of science long established superstitions have been replaced by truth.

The opposing team argued that advance in civilization can not be judged by material gain. They denied that human happiness has been increased as a result of scientific and mechanical progress, and questioned the advancement of an age which could sponsor a struggle as brutal as the world war.

Following the debate an open forum was held in which the audience joined in the discussion.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK means to Camel Smokers*

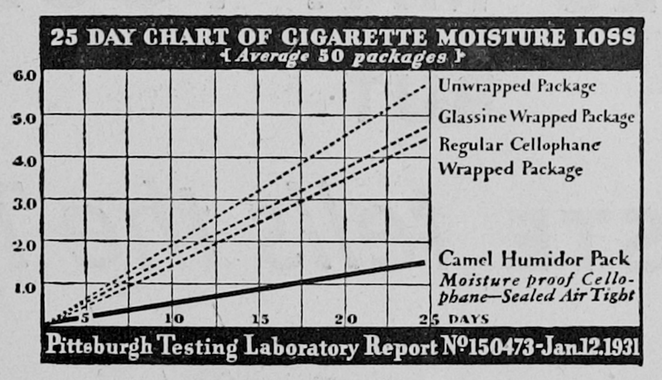
COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.



The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the* difference *yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

Boyd Brown Collects Forty-One Points to Win First in All Campus Decathlon Contest

The second annual intramural decathlon has been completed and the scores are now available. Three second year students captured the medals offered by Blue Key; Brown lead the field of contestants with 41 points as his total score, MacLean amassed 37 points and MacKenzie was close behind with 33 points. The winner made 9 points in the 60 yard dash, 7 in the 60 yard low hurdles, 9 in the discus throw, 6 in the pole vault and 10 in the shot put. MacLean made 2 points in the 60 yard dash, 10 in the 60 yard hurdles, 5 in the discus throw, 4 in the pole vault, 10 in the high jump and 6 in the shot put. MacKenzie received 9 points in the discus throw, 10 in the pole vault, 6 in the high jump and 8 in the shot put. Hanson took 10 points in the mile, 8 in the half mile and 1 in the 60 yard hurdles.

In the finals of the 60 yard dash Brown and Bibby tied for first place, Sanzo took third place, Deemer fourth and MacLean and Jocelyn tied for fifth. In spite of the cold weather and strong headwind, the time was 6.6 seconds.

MacLean Wins Hurdles

The 60 yard hurdles was won by MacLean in 7.8 seconds while Brown finished strongly to tie for second place with Banta. Sanzo captured fourth place and Deemer and Hanson tied for fifth. The race was run under adverse conditions.

Brown and MacKenzie were contented to tie for first place in the discus throw when each hurled the plate 111½ feet. Corliss and MacLean split next honors while Pratt took the last place that earned points.

MacKenzie's highest pole vault landed him in first place; Schoonmaker, a freshman, showed up well and took second place. Brown, MacLean, and Banta finished in the order named. MacKenzie's winning jump was 9 feet 6 inches.

MacLean's peculiar style of high jumping won him first place in that event. His jump of 5 feet 10 inches bettered Affleck's best by one inch. MacKenzie finished in third place, Schoonmaker in fourth and Sanzo in fifth.

Brown easily won the shot put with a heave of 38 feet 2 inches. MacKenzie's put beat Deemer's and Harwood's; the latter two tied for last place.

Fallon showed his heels to all comers in the half-mile run. He finished easily in the good time of 2 minutes and 5 seconds with Hanson about one eighth of a lap behind him. Chase, Cox and Sanzo took the next scoring positions in the order named.

Hanson, varsity miler, beat Fallon to the tape in the mile run. The time was 4 minutes and 49 seconds. Sears, Cox and Harwood took third, fourth and fifth places respectively.

Shows New Talent

The decathlon showed up some new talent in several of the individual events while it also proved that Middlebury has three or four men that can turn in good records in several events. Fallon's time of 2 minutes and 5 seconds for the half-mile is noteworthy. The race was run on a cold, windy day on a board track; the college record for this race is 2 minutes and 1 second and it seems reasonable to believe that under more favorable conditions and in intercollegiate competition this time will be bettered. Brown did not make such a great score this year as last, but his general superiority in the field events and the dashes carried him through. MacLean and MacKenzie showed considerable development also in the field events since their showing last year. Hanson showed his usual form in the distances while Schoonmaker seems to be the best man to be groomed for Affleck's position as high jumper.

Total scoring: Brown, 41; MacLean, 37; MacKenzie, 33; Hanson, 19; Fallon, 18; Sanzo, 13; Schoonmaker, 12; Bibby, 9; Banta, 9; Cox, 8; Affleck, 8; Chase, 6; Sears, 6; Corliss, 5; Harwood, 5; Jocelyn, 2; Pratt, 2.

Intramural Track Relays Are Being Held This Week

A trophy is to be awarded by the Blue Key society to the winning team in the intramural board track relays which are now being held.

The trophy is about eight inches tall and is a statue of a runner in action on a standard of ebony.

Drawings for the order of the races and the opponent team for each team was made yesterday. It has been decided that the points earned in these relays will not count towards the "trophy of trophies". The races are being run off on an elimination basis and same men who run in the semi-finals will run in the finals.

HOCKEY TEAM ELECTS NELSON '32 CAPTAIN

Leader of 1932 Sextet Also Prominent in Other Major Sports.

Walter J. Nelson '32, of Dorchester, Mass., is captain-elect of Middlebury's hockey team for next year. The letter men of the past season so voted in Mead Memorial Chapel last Wednesday.

The new captain has been a letter man in hockey for three years, playing center ice on three strong Middlebury sextets. During the past season he has performed especially well in skating and passing besides being second to Makela in high scoring honors for the season.

"Duke" has been known as an outstanding Middlebury athlete ever since his election as captain of freshman football in the fall of 1928. Since that time opponents of the Blue and White have had considerable trouble from Nelson's unusual combination of ability and fighting spirit. He is a letter man in three major sports, being outstanding as a varsity football center and captain of this year's baseball team, besides playing hockey in the winter. In intramural athletics "Duke" has played interfraternity basketball, golf, handball and tennis.

As a freshman he was also on the Dean's list and last year his name was engraved on the Hazeltine-Klevenow cup, an honor given only to a Middlebury man who combines unusual scholarship with athletic ability.

SOPHOMORE WOMEN LEAD IN BASKETBALL

The senior guards played well and the forwards cooperated in a fine manner. The entire freshman team played well. Dorothy Wilson '34, was high scorer with 26 points.

Talk on French Indo-China at A. A. U. W. Reception

The Middlebury branch of the American association of university women held a formal reception for senior women in the Abernethy wing of the library at 8 p. m., March 17. Mrs. Gilbert Davis of Windsor, Vermont, was the speaker of the evening, her subject being "French Indo-China".

Mrs. Davis spoke in an informal way of the ten days she spent in French Indo-China as part of her recent trip around the world. She said that the country is quite safe for travelers, and that the cities are becoming as modern as Paris. In particular, Mrs. Davis told of the ancient city of Angkor. The French government is excavating these ruins which were built about 900 A. D. but have lain buried for 400 years. The temples of the city are still seen as noble monuments to an unknown civilization.

After the talk, refreshments were served in the Vermont room. Hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Miss Eleanor S. Ross, and Miss Clara B. Knapp.

HOTEL BUSINESS AND BANKING DISCUSSED

work to stick on the job when so many outside pleasures are denied one. Still, there is great enjoyment for some people in the work, and they think it worth all the hardships it has. There are also very good salaries for those who are successful in making a hotel pay, some hotels paying their managers as much as $100,000 a year for exceptional success.

Banking

Mr. Smith, in his talk on "Banking as a field for college men", started by tracing the careers of several prominent bankers, beginning with Mr. Hepburn, who gave the college Hepburn hall. He pointed out the steps of success in banking, both in Hepburn's times and at present.

Banking has come to be a very great industry in America, Mr. Smith said, and some of the largest companies have vast establishments and thousands of employees. Like any other business, banking has plenty of competition, and to succeed the banker must closely study business conditions, so as to employ his capital to the very best advantage.

In naming the qualities which are essential to success in banking, Mr. Smith cited first personality. There is a certain type of personality which is able to convince people and yet not make itself to obvious to them. That is the kind the banker needs. The banker must also have the ability and the courage to grasp opportunities when they are available. Finally, he must have the ability to understand the problems of other business, so that he is best able to help his neighborhood and himself and so insure his success in the banking field.

used. Each speaker will be allowed a constructive speech of ten minutes duration and a five minute rebuttal.

Southern Trip.

The men's varsity team, composed of Thomas J. Duffield '33, Edward Yerovitz '33, Reamer Kline '32, and William S. Weier '33, alternate and assistant manager, will leave Monday morning, March 30, on its southern trip. That evening Albany law school of Union university will be encountered at Albany. Middlebury will uphold the affirmative side of the question, resolved: that the United States should recognize soviet Russia. This debate proposition is to be used in all the trip debates.

Lafayette college at Easton, Pa., and New Jersey state teachers' college at Montclair will be met Tuesday and Wednesday nights respectively. The following afternoon, April 2, the annual Middlebury-New York university debate will be broadcast from the studios of station WGBS at 4 p. m.

The broadcast will mark the first time in the history of the college that a Middlebury debate team has been heard over the air. The entire program will last forty-five minutes; and, consequently, the number and time limit of speeches will be cut down. Each team will be allowed two constructive speeches of seven minutes duration and one six minute rebuttal.

The team will then travel to Richmond, Virginia, where they will engage in their first intersectional debate which will be with the college of William and Mary. This encounter will take place Friday evening, April 3.

for someone to remember Him in love. In a certain story only those who were remembered were brought to life. There is no difference in Jesus' life whether we remember Him or not; the difference lies in our own lives. Our thoughts are wings to lift us to Heaven, or they are high explosives to bring us to destruction.

"There are many instances when we can and should remember Jesus Christ, first, when we are choosing the dominating influences in our lives. We grow like our ideals and if we choose Jesus as ours we shall grow more like Him. Secondly, we can remember Jesus when facing decisive issues of conduct, in overcoming temptation, and thirdly, when we are in doubt about immortality. There always comes a time when we want to believe in a more blessed life. When we are with Jesus, we, like Him, shall have eternal life. Again, we must remember Him when we want to know what God is like, because God revealed Himself in Christ.

"Lastly, we can remember Jesus when we want to test our lives. Everything is tested by something, as orchestras tune by the piano, and weather is tested by the thermometer. There is an old hymn with the words 'We test our lives by Thine'. When we are perplexed about what to do, we should imagine our action in the life of Jesus. If it is not fitting there, then we have failed; but if it seems in harmony with what He has taught, then we have passed our test."
